Chapter 406: The Emergence of the Primordial Will

The air in the True Absolute One Domain Realm was heavy with anticipation. Every celestial, shadow, and dragon army stood poised, their weapons and spells at the ready. Sung Jin-Woo, Ashborn, and Sung Su-Ho stood atop the massive platform beneath the Third World Tree, their gazes fixed on the shifting skies.

From the vast expanse of the Void, a rift tore through reality itself. Out of it came a presence unlike any other, vast and immeasurable. The Primordial Will, a being of chaos, entropy, and creation, began to take form.

The Manifestation of the Primordial Will

The being had no distinct shape, shifting between forms of light, darkness, and energy. Its voice, both a whisper and a roar, resonated across all realms simultaneously.

"You dare defy me?" the Primordial Will intoned. "I am the beginning and the end. Your creations are but sparks in the infinite void."

Sung Jin-Woo stepped forward, his Nine Divine Jewels glowing with immense power. "And yet, those sparks have challenged your eternity. Your time of unchecked dominion ends now."

The Primordial Will responded with a wave of chaotic energy, rippling across dimensions. Entire universes quaked as the energy approached the Divine Triad.

The Shield of the Divine Triad

Sung Su-Ho raised his Dragonflame Shield, channeling the power of the True Dragon God Realm. A fiery barrier of golden flames expanded, neutralizing the chaotic wave.

Ashborn followed, summoning the Light of Eternity, which enveloped the barrier in a protective cocoon of celestial energy.

Finally, Sung Jin-Woo infused the shield with the Shadow of Eternity, stabilizing it against the Primordial Will's onslaught.

"You may be infinite," Ashborn said, his voice calm yet firm, "but we are unyielding."

The Battle Begins

The armies of the Divine Triad surged forward. The Eclipsian Vanguard, Draconian Sentinels, and Voidwalkers led the charge, their combined might slicing through the chaotic manifestations that the Primordial Will unleashed.

From the skies descended Celestial Seraphim and Dark Archangels, their radiant and shadowy energies working in perfect harmony.

The Primordial Will retaliated, summoning legions of formless entities composed of pure chaos. These creatures clashed with the Divine Triad’s forces, causing the very fabric of reality to ripple and tear.

The Power of the Nine Jewels

Sung Jin-Woo activated the full power of his Nine Divine Jewels. The jewels on his palms emitted beams of energy so potent they tore through the chaotic entities effortlessly.

The jewels on his feet allowed him to move at unimaginable speeds, appearing across multiple battlefronts simultaneously.

The remaining five jewels, connected to his hearts and brain, amplified his intelligence, strategy, and sheer power to unfathomable levels.

Ashborn and Su-Ho’s Counterattack

Ashborn unleashed the Celestial Wrath, a torrent of blinding light that purged chaos wherever it touched.

Su-Ho, wielding the Lance of Eternal Flame, struck directly at the core of the Primordial Will, causing it to recoil in pain.

"You are not invincible," Su-Ho declared. "Even eternity can be severed!"

The Primordial Will Unleashes Its True Form

Realizing it was being overpowered, the Primordial Will condensed itself into a singular form—a massive humanoid figure with countless eyes, each representing a universe it had created.

"I am not bound by your laws!" it roared, swinging a colossal arm that obliterated entire star systems in its path.

Sung Jin-Woo intercepted the attack with his Void Scythe, the clash creating a shockwave that resonated across all dimensions.

"You may be vast," Jin-Woo said, "but you lack what we have—purpose."

The Unity of the Divine Triad

The Divine Triad combined their powers, creating a massive sphere of energy that contained light, shadow, and fire.

"This ends now," Ashborn said, his voice filled with divine resolve.

Sung Su-Ho added, "For the balance of all realms!"

Sung Jin-Woo delivered the final command. "Together, we forge a new reality!"

The sphere was hurled toward the Primordial Will, piercing through its core. The entity let out a deafening roar as its essence began to unravel.

The Fall of the Primordial Will

As the Primordial Will disintegrated, its chaotic influence faded from the realms. The skies cleared, and the fabric of existence stabilized.

Sung Jin-Woo absorbed the remaining essence of the entity, further elevating his power.

"This victory is not ours alone," he said, addressing his allies and armies. "It belongs to all who fight for balance and harmony."

The armies erupted in cheers, their voices echoing across all realms.

A New Dawn

With the Primordial Will defeated, the Divine Triad turned their attention to restoring the damage caused during the battle.

Sung Jin-Woo, now more powerful than ever, stood atop his throne beneath the Third World Tree, gazing out at the realms.

"This is only the beginning," he murmured. "A new era of creation awaits."
